N. Korea, Cuba Sign Trade Pact

TOKYO, Jan. 12 (AP)—North Korea and Cuba signed a long-term trade agreement in Pyongyang today, the North Korean Radio reported.

The broadcast said North Korea will deliver machine tools, farm-machine tools, various structural steels, foodstuffs and other commodities.

In exchange, the broadcast said, Cuba will deliver sugar, hemp and other commodities. Neither the amount of the agreement nor its length was announced.